TOO MUCH.

She had read in books at scientific lore
Of the proper thing for babies, one or more,
With a thirst for information she had studied incubation, and she read works on lactation by the score.

She declared that porcupine was a sin,
And the creed she was no place to put babes in,
And she wrote for information on interesting reproduction, and she plead resuscitation of the pin.

She had studied infants' cries and what they meant
And could locate a pain as she'er the air was rent
She was up on imbibition and all manner of nutrition, and she was in deglutition not reticent.

But when her baby came she had her head,
And every night was heard her revolting dread,
And she got so agitated at each symptom indicated that her husband, man ill fated, turned out (dead).

E. P. NEAL,
(County Attorney)
ATTORNEY at LAW,
HARTFORD, KY.
WILL PRACTICE in the courts of this and Ohmo, on account of his intelligence and strength, and his unabout always called him my lord the elephant and treated him with the greatest respect. You know the Hindoo belief—that the souls of one's ancestors have to reside for a period after death in the bodies of animals till they have atoned for their shortcomings on earth, and, lest they might unwittingly treat some of their grandfathers or great-grandmothers with disrespect, which would be a criminal violation of their religion, it is their custom to give to each of the inmates of the jail a particular title as, for instance, his highness the tiger, our king the lion, etc. So Mowcha was more of an admirer of my lord the elephant than by his real name.

He was a great pet in the regiment, and for days after the night I speak of, there was no better sport than to climb into the howdah, shrieking with laughter, and have a ride on Mowcha. He seemed to enjoy it as much as they did and carried his precious burden with the greatest dignity. He was really handsome, as elephants go, and looked his best when adorned with his scarlet trappings and harness and bearing the howdah filled with merry children, and it was a pretty sight to see them afterward bestowing upon him his reward in the shape of pineapples, bananas and mangoes, after which he loved to stow away in his capacious stomach.

I tell you all these details that you may understand my grief when he suddenly disappeared one night in early spring. My lord the elephant had been restless for several days, his mahout informed me afterward, and that evening he had managed to break his chain and had vanished in the darkness. Whether he had been spirited away by a clever thief, or had decided that he had exercised for man long enough and would now return to his native woods and the society of his kind, he never knew, of course, but we missed him more than ons would think, and for some time the cry among the children was, "If Mowcha were only here!"

I tried a number of other elephants for my hunting, but could not fill his place, and my interest increased to such that time my gun rarely left its case, and my cartridge belt hung unused on the wall.

About three or four years later I was invited to spend the Christmas holidays with an English friend who was giving a house party at his place further up in the hills. I easily obtained leave and started with but one servant, Ramon. He had formerly been Mowcha's mahout, but after that brute's uncanny disappearance he had attached himself to me and proved to be a very handy fellow. We went partly on foot during the ponies, and the first day made about 80 miles, spending the night at the inn of one of the forest rangers who are stationed by the government as a guard along the edges of large and important forests.

The next day we plunged into the forest itself. Toward midday we were startled by hearing a fearful, thunderous roaring, as if some animal were in death agony. At that distance I did not recognize it as the voice of any wild animal I was acquainted with and turned to Ramon for an explanation. His dark skin was bleached to ashen gray.

"It's a herd of elephants," he exclaimed, "and they are sounding their battlecry! If they come this way, it means certain death. We cannot escape them."

It certainly seemed as though they were headed in our direction, for the noise grew louder, and we could feel the ground trembling beneath us at the trampling of many feet.

"Follow me, sahib!" cried Ramon as he threw himself from his horse and hastened to one of the largest trees, which he began to ascend with the utmost rapidity. I did the same, my progress being hindered, however, by my heavy riding boots. We had no time to secure our ponies, and the frightened animals, as soon as they were released, sprang nimbly through the thickets and disappeared, and with them, of course, vanished our only means of escape from the forest, even though the elephants should pass us by unharmed.

We reached our position of safety none too soon. I could see the heavy forest branches shaking violently, and soon a huge gray mass broke through, thundering along at a remarkable rate of speed, not 20 yards from us and screaming with vicious rage.

"It's a rogue elephant, sahib," said Ramon. "They are chasing him from the herd."

Such indeed seemed to be the case, for 100 yards behind him came the enormous figure, which was headed straight for our place of refuge. As by lightning flash I saw the horrible death that menaced us. I already felt myself falling to the ground, in a second more to be trampled to death under those tusks and feet. But I was not to be robbed of my prey in captivity at some time and called out the word of command, hoping that it would be obeyed. He was not disappointed, for, although the small eyes still gleamed with an angry red light and the trunk waved cautiously in the air, the great creature had not forgotten his former training. We approached him cautiously at first, but presently Ramon rushed fearlessly to the front of the herd and patted him affectionately, calling him by every name of endearment. "Ah, 'tis thou, my lord the elephant!" he cried, leader of the herd, wiser than the wise men of the temple, beautiful as a lotus bud, strong as the winds of heaven! O great Lord Mowcha, why didst thou desert us?"

Truly enough it was our old Mowcha, who, in spite of lapse of time and change of place, had not forgotten his old associates and the familiar word of command.

All this had happened within a few moments. The great herd was still crashing through the forest all around us, trumpeting with rage and shaking the ground in their fury. Should one of them choose to come near enough to see us our lives would not be worth a farthing. Mowcha seemed to understand the situation perfectly, for, his anger all gone, he noticed Ramon gently with his strong trunk and set him upon his neck, where the mahout usually rides. He grasped me with the same ease and placed me beside him. Then he rose and started off at a good pace in the direction opposite to that taken by the rest of his fellows, and soon their screams and thunderings had died away.

We wondered where my lord the elephant intended carrying us, whether to his native jungles or to the post again. Ramon tried to guide him, but found it impossible, for he was deaf to the usual autcus, or goad, so we confined our efforts to keeping our balance and staying on his back, a somewhat difficult task without the aid of harness or howdah.

Briefly told, his strong, steady pace never failed for ten hours, until at last we entered the post again. Our approach had been descried from afar, and every living soul had turned out to view the spectacle. When it was perceived that it was Mowcha, dear old Mowcha, who was bringing us back in safety, a hearty welcome broke from all throats, a cheer for my lord the elephant. The children clapped their hands and shrieked with joy, and even the soldiers shared the general enthusiasm.

We gave my lord the elephant a feast such as never elephant had had before, but he did not seem to enjoy the delicacies spread before him so much as the moment when the howdah was placed on his back, and he was led forth, surrounded by the children, whom he once more bore solemnly around the post.

For two days he remained with us and was the object of attention and love. Then he became restless, and we fancied he again longed for his forest home. So the cruel chain was stricken off his right foot, and my lord the elephant, with roses and branches wreathed around his great neck and hanging from his lordly tusks, was led forth and given his liberty.—Our Animal Friends.

A Dimple-Maker.

Application was once made by a woman for a patent on "artificial dimples." It was rejected, however, by the commissioner of the patent office, so that any one who now desires to experiment can do so without fear of infringement. Below are directions:

"Smear a small spot on the cheek or chin with colorless shellac varnish mixed with zinc. With a pencil or a pen holder press the flesh with the point, holding it there until the substance on the face becomes dry and hard. The stiffened indentation thus retains the exact shape of a dimple, and a little face powder carefully dusted over the "artificial dimple" will completely conceal the varnish and zinc compound.

"Some care must be observed in smiling too suddenly," adds the originator of this scheme, "or the dimple may be broken. But with ordinary, gentle usage, it will retain its pretty shape a while awaiting, if not longer."

In 1881 a patent was issued to a Boston woman on two somewhat novel devices. One of them was for restoring facial symmetry, and consisted of a spring attached with a bead and two prongs or forks. The bead was to be attached to the teeth and by placing the prongs inside of the mouth so that they would press outward against each cheek, caused the cheeks in time to look plump and full. The other was a finger compressor for making taper hands.

Another invention by the fair sex is a nose improver. It consists of a metal shell of the exact size of the nose desired. The nose is well bathed and then greased with olive oil or glycerine until perfectly soft. The improver is then attached and worn during the night. In this way, it is claimed, any nose may be changed to suit, the theory being that the nose is only a piece of cartilage and easy to change its shape.

A Touching Incident.
(Our Lower Animals.)

Events are constantly occurring in large cities which illustrate the struggle for life among the poor, beginning literally in infancy and ending often only with the termination of a miserable existence.

About nine o'clock of the evening of the day of the late election a gentleman passing up Washington street in Boston, was asked by a small boy to buy a paper.

"How is it," he inquired, "that you haven't sold your papers before this?"

"Have sold my papers," he replied; "I've sold all mine. These are the other little fellow's, and I'm helping him clean 'em out."

"Where is the other little fellow?"

"Oh, he's there in the entry."

The gentleman looked and saw a boy fast asleep upon the stairs. "How old is he?" he inquired.

"Oh, about six, and he lives in South Boston, and don't want to go home till he's sold out."

The evening was damp and chilly, and the sight of the poor, half-clad little waif, tired out and asleep upon the stairs, so tenderly moved him, that he purchased his remaining stock of papers, to the great delight of the child, who, rousing up from his nap, and shivering with cold, gladly took the quarter of a dollar given to him in the palm of his hand, and pocketed his much larger than the coin he received, and stowing it away safely in his pocket started off on a run for his home, to tell his mother of the luck of her child, wiser than the wise men of the temple, beautiful as a lotus bud, strong as the winds of heaven! O great Lord Mowcha, why didst thou desert us?"

Truly enough it was our old Mowcha, who, in spite of lapse of time and change of place, had not forgotten his old associates and the familiar word of command.

of the physical constitution often comes from unnatural, perhaps habits, contracted through ignorance. Such habits result in loss of manly power, nervous exhaustion, nervous debility, impotency, low spirits, irritable temper, and a thousand and one derangements of mind and body. Epilepsy, paralysis, softening of the brain, and even dread insanity sometimes result from such reckless self-abuse.

To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness, is the aim of the publishers of a book written in plain but chaste language, on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. This book will be sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents in stamps to pay postage.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

IS "ARGON," THE NEW ELEMENT IN THE AIR.

Scientists Believe They Are Now on the Eve of Discovering the Cause of Many Puzzling Things.

MYSTERIES EXPLAINED.

[New York World.]

The sarora borealis has now been explained as the work of argon, the new element in the atmosphere revealed to the scientific world only a few months ago, and savants are asking in amusement what further chemical discoveries are impending. Mysteries which for ages have puzzled men of science may, it is pointed out, find their solution in argon, a basic element hitherto unsuspected, which is destroying all the old laws and setting up new ones.

Who is to say where the frenzy of experiment which has now seized the scientific world over this new substance may not end?

Who can tell what resolutions are impending as the new gas is condensed and tested and as soon as one scientist after another contributes the results of his work to the general knowledge?

But a few months ago and argon was unknown, and now the aurora, nature's most mysterious phenomenon, and a never ceasing puzzle to scientists, is explained by its action. A few months or even weeks hence no one can tell what other mysteries may not also be solved, and from day to day the field is broadening in the pathway of discovery along which the thoughts of the scientific world are now directed. A gas present in stupendous quantity has been found which reveals strange qualities. It bears a relationship to light and heat that is yet mysterious. Without it human life would be impossible, and under its influence electricity is curiously affected.

Tested under the spectroscope, argon is found to have light giving qualities. It is also mysteriously affected by heat and cold. At these phenomena the men of science are astonished. Here, it is admitted, may be a discovery greater than that of electricity, more revolutionary in its effects than that of steam itself.

The primal and hitherto undreamed of cause of many of the forces of nature may at last have been unearthed. There is hypnotism for instance, a strange, mysterious force, well recognized, but inexplainable by known laws. Argon, it is suggested, may lie at the bottom of this scientific mystery. By breathing it into the lungs in greater or less quantity, the human system may become charged with this new gas, which, having mesmeric influence of its own, may effect the wills of other individuals.

In medicine this new gas, which, condensed, looks like cheese, may play a most important part, yielding to the physician drugs and finds of the greatest potency. It may cure diseases, refresh exhausted natures and be the veritable elixir of life which mankind in all ages has vainly sought to find.

For countless ages men have viewed with wondering awe the brilliant interplay of prismatic colors which at rare intervals have irradiated the northern heavens at night, and returning travelers from the Arctic have told how, in the very zenith, some gigantic brush seemed nightly to have revelled in a many-colored painting of the sky as lum ions as it was evanescent.

It was the eminent French scientist, Prof. Berthelot, who sought to ascertain whether argon might not explain the aurora and whose work has now been crowned with victory. During February he had received from Prof. Ramsey a tube containing some of the new gas.

Prof. Berthelot at once began a series of investigations to ascertain, first, the chemical combinations into which the new gas might be induced to enter, and, second, to secure a comparison of the spectrum of argon with that of the aurora borealis. Prof. Berthelot found that argon could be induced under electrical influences to combine or become absorbed by certain of the hydrates of carbon. This combination, however, was effected much less easily than with nitrogen, which some chemists still consider to stand in the same relation to argon as does oxygen to ozone.

"Then," said Prof. Berthelot in describing his experiments, "I passed the silent sicctrical discharge through the tube of argon, there resulted a very feeble violet flame or glow, visible only in perfect darkness. Then I introduced ten drops of benzine into the tube and submitted it to a mild continuous current of electricity for ten hours. I found that 11 per cent. of the gas had been absorbed, or rather that the original 100 volumes had been reduced to 89. I submitted the remainder to electric discharge at a higher tension and in three hours this 89 volumes had been reduced to 64.

"A third time I placed the gas, mixed with benzine, to a high current from a Ruhmkorff battery, and the gaseous residue was only 32. This last product was not pure argon, as it was mixed with the products of electrical reaction on the benzine. The 32 volumes of gas proved to be made up of 13.5 parts of hydrogen, 1.5 parts of vapors of benzine, and 17 parts of argon. The solid residuum consisted of a yellow resinous substance, deposited upon the walls of the tube. It was volatilized easily by heat and left an abundant charcoal deposit. The vapors were alkaline apparently, but the quantities were too small for reliable analysis.

"During these experiments in passing electric currents through argon mixed with benzine I obtained splendid display of colors similar in every respect to those of the aurora borealis. Testing these with the spectroscope, the identification seemed fully confirmed. It will be necessary to investigate further with larger quantities of the new gas, but the results obtained already certainly suggest that the aurora borealis is caused by the action of electric currents upon the argon and other elements in the atmosphere."

The "Northern Lights," which have so long puzzled mariners and scientists and frighted superstitious people, have thus been actually produced upon a small scale in the darkened laboratory of Prof. Berthelot. In the blackness of the night he obtained, he says, "splendid displays of color similar in every respect to the aurora borealis," and the plain statement that these was coincident with a strange change in the chemical formation of the new gas.

The argon appeared to be consumed by the little aurora borealis it was throwing off before the astonished and delighted eyes of the man of science. How large an aurora he can now produce appears, moreover, to be only dependent upon the quantity of argon he can procure, and when this gas becomes a purchasable commodity this beautiful experiment will be within the reach of every amateur.

An immense field, it has been suggested, has been opened up by this astounding discovery, and the hope has even been expressed that here may be the light of the future, which will replace electricity, as the latter is displacing gas. The quantities of argon in the atmosphere are illimitable and unmeasurable.

Big Things.

Vandarbilt's yacht, the Valiant, is the largest that has ever been built. She is 308 feet long, 39 feet wide and 16½ feet deep.

The largest check ever drawn on a bank was one for $1,375,750. It was drawn by G. W. Young in favor of Thomas A. McEntyre, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The tallest chimney in the world is at Ludwigshafen, Germany. It is 567 feet high and cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

The largest orchard in the world is situated near Senis Barbara, Cal., belonging to Elwood Cooper. It comprises 1,700 acres.

The largest State building in the United States is the capitol of Texas. It is also seventh in size among the great buildings of the world. It cost $3,500,000.

The great Hamburg (Germany) grapevine, which was planted in the year 1851 and is now 60 inches in circumference, is the largest in the world.

The largest estate, Texas is the "Crown Land." It belongs exclusively to the Czare and is an estate of over 100,000,000 acres.

The costliest mansion in Great Britain belongs to Lord or Marquis Bute. He has expended over $8,000,000 upon it.

The largest aerolite which has fallen since the dawn of history tumbled into the frozen soil of Greenland in 1870. It was in the museum of Copenhagen. It weighs 49,000 pounds.

The largest ranch now running in full blast in the State of Wyoming is that owned by ex-Senator Warren. The dimensions of this immense farm are of such mammoth proportions that figures on its area appear almost fabulous and beyond belief. Its dimensions are 75 by 100 miles, and it is stocked with upwards of 300,000 animals of various kinds, including horses, cattle, sheep, goats, hogs and half-breed buffalo. The itemized inventory shows that 4,000 horses, 30,000 cattle, and over 150,000 sheep daily graze on the ex-Senator's "broad acres." Compared with the State of Rhode Island, this gigantic farm is as a four-horse 'bus to a baby cab. The State mentioned is only 37 miles one way and 47½ the other. The farm is 75 by 100 miles.

DISEASES OF WOMEN
Will be Treated Free by Dr. Hartman During the Summer Months.
"Female diseases" is a term which has come, by constant use, to be applied to all of that very distressing class of affections which are peculiar to the female organism. The cause which is perhaps most frequent is displacement of the womb. The second cause is congestion of one or more of the pelvic passages. The third cause is known as inflammation or ulceration. Pe-ru-na should be taken in tablespoonful doses before each meal in all varieties and stages of the disease. This dose should be gradually increased after several weeks' use of it to two tablespoonfuls. Vaginal injections should be taken three times a day, two or three quarts at each injection.
Any woman wishing to become a regular patient of Dr. Hartman should send name, address, duration of disease and symptoms at once, and specific directions from every detail of her treatment will be promptly sent. The doctor will direct every item of the treatment free of charge. The patient can obtain the necessary medicines at the nearest drug-store, and every patient will be expected to report once a month. This gives every woman in the United States a chance to receive the benefit of the extensive experience of this renowned physician in all forms of female diseases.

Why He Ceased Swimming.

[Cincinnati Tribune.]

The notoriety attained by the man who fell in the rapids just above Niagara, and who, just as he was about to be rescued, shouted, "I will drown; no one shall help me," instead of "I shall drown; no one will help me," bids fair to be rivalled by an eccentric individual who fell into the river at the foot of Fifth street yesterday.

At this place there is a sign for the admonishment of small boys in summer time.

Persons who see the unfortunate fellow fall into the water thought he was safe, for he struck out boldly for the shore. Suddenly he cast a despairing glance toward the land and sank from sight. By the efforts of a number of persons on the bank he was saved. He was asked why he stopped swimming so quickly.

"Don't you see that sign, 'Ten dollars' fine for swimming here?" he grasped as he was being resuscitated.

A Prosperous Farmer.

When you see a farm larger than his house it shows that he will have large profits and small afflictions. When you see him driving his work it shows that he never be driven from good resolutions and that he will continually work his way to prosperity. When you see in his woodhouse a sufficiency for three months or more, it shows that he will be more than a ninety days worker in farming operations, and he is not sleeping in his house after a drunken frolic. When his sled is housed in the summer and his farming implements housed both in winter and summer, it plainly shows that he will have a good house over his head in the summar of his early life and the winter of his old age. When his cattle are properly shielded and fed in winter, it evinces that he is acting according to scripture, which says that "a merciful man is merciful to his beast." When he is subscribing for a paper and paying in advance, it shows that he is speaking like a book respecting the latest improvements in agriculture, and that he never gets his walking papers to the land of poverty.

The great Sahara Desert of Africa is regarded as the hottest region of the world. This vast plain which extends 3,000 miles from east to west, and 1,000 from north to south, has a temperature of 150 degrees Fahrenheit in the hottest days of summer. This is about the temperature of the hot room in the Turkish bath. It is said that the caravans, which usually consist of from 500 to 2,000 camels, with their assistants, experience great suffering through the intense heat and the deprivation of water, as the distance between wells vary often exceeds ten days. There are numerous instances on record where whole tribes have perished from thirst as the wells and springs to which they had journeyed had been dried up by the heat. It would be impossible for any one but the acclimatized Moors, Berbers and Arabs to live, even for a day, in the heat of rainless Sahara. In spite of the fact that the days are extremely hot, the nights are nearly always uncomfortably cold, and the travelers are obliged to burden themselves with blankets in order to endure the change.—[Brooklyn Eagle.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19.

HON. P. WATT HARDIN has received nearly enough instructions to insure his election as Governor. He will be in the lead from the beginning and will be the next Governor of Kentucky.

THE men who pretend to favor the well-being and good name of Hartford who were not on hand Monday to aid those who made the fight against saloons here, are welcome to such consolation as they find in the result.

THE boys over at Owensboro are having a barrel of fun with themselves on the silver question. They have had divers and sundry speakers there, and have talked about as much and as wildly on both sides of the currency controversy as any people on earth, even in Nebraska. The gold men name a presidential possibility every few days and the silverites do likewise. It was this tendency to fill the presidential chair with each man's favorite which provoked this from the Sunday Post:

In behalf of many voters we desire to make a motion: Don't let's go so far West for our next free silver orator. Fall up Josh Griffith, Capt. Mills, Jake Rowe—anybody this side of Nebraska.

IF our neighboring county of Hancock needs any more school teachers we can supply her. While there were seven applicants for certificates at the recent examination of teachers over there we had 81 applicants. It must be said, however, to the credit of Hancock that, whatever their number, the teachers of that county are as thorough and enterprising as any in the State. They seem to catch something of the spirit prevailing in the schools of the people just across the river from them and they teach school according to the most approved methods. In this particular they are good running mates for the teachers of Ohio county.

HERE is the declaration upon which the Democrats of Ohio county propose to stand until it is superseded by another National Democratic platform:

We denounce the Republican legislation known as the sherman act of 1890 as a cowardly makeshift, fraught with possibilities of danger in the future which should make all of its supporters as well as its authors, anxious for its speedy repeal. We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, or be adjusted by international agreement or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of any dollar at all times in the market and in the payment of debts; and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of the farmers and laboring classes —the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and a fluctuating currency.

WHISKY WINS.

The most exciting contest ever waged in Hartford was that of Monday to settle the question of whether or not the town shall render null the county prohibition law. After a day of the most earnest work upon the part of the friends of good order and of the law which the people of the county had made, the saloon element won by a meager majority of two votes. But for the fact that one man voting against the saloons spoiled his ballot, the majority would have been but one. Arrayed on the side of the saloons was a solid line of negroes, whose votes, taken with the minority of white men in favor of the saloon, it was impossible to overcome. Considering the means used to secure the result it may not fairly be said to represent the intelligent choice of Hartford's citizens. It will probably be some time yet before saloons are opened in Hartford.

THE PEOPLE'S SERVANT AND HIS CAUSE.

Never was a triumph more signal or a victory more complete than that achieved by Governor Brown in his fight for the people of the State against the encroachments of the greatest corporations in the country which was terminated by the Court of Appeals last week. The Louisville and Nashville railroad is the greatest corporation ever in Kentucky. It is great in everything. No institution in Kentucky commands such magnificent property or such splendid talent. It has been the greatest of all the factors contributing to the development and prosperity of the State. Like every enterprise of its kind it is conducted upon the very highest plan of business enterprise. As a rule, it has been obedient to the laws which have been in force in the State, but like all other men its managers have sought to make the most out of the opportunities about them. It has usually bought or crushed its rivals and has aspired to do all the business in its line among the people in its territory.

This kind of enterprise, while an outgrowth of the perfectly natural impulse of man, may reach a stage as in case of a great railroad system, at which incalculable detriment may result to the other business interest affected. Such would have been the case with the L. & N., but for the inhibitions of the Constitution of the Commonwealth which a fearless and capable chief executive has so faithfully enforced.

A man of the most undaunted courage and a lawyer with scarcely a peer in the Commonwealth, a statesman, a patriot and the untiring and unswerving friend of his State and her people, John Young Brown is recognized by every student of affairs and men as the ablest and the best Governor Kentucky has had in this generation. That his splendid service to the State and her people will be recognized by those whose affairs he has so wisely managed, we will not doubt, while we know Kentucky's pride in and appreciation for her favored sons.

THE CANDIDATES.

The Democratic State Convention will meet in Louisville next Tuesday to nominate candidates for the various offices to be filled at the approaching election. The following make up the candidates now seeking the support of that Convention:

GOVERNOR—P. W. Hardin, Mercer county; C. M. Clay, Jr., Bourbon county; M. C. Alford, Lee county.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR—R. T. Tyler, Hickman county; M. D. Brown, Christian county; Oscar Turner, Jr., Louisville.

SECRETARY OF STATE—H. S. Hale, Graves county; John W. Headley, Louisville; J. Stoddard Johnston, Louisville; C. W. Metcalf, Bell county.

AUDITOR—L. C. Norman, Boone county.

TREASURER—W. H. Gardner, Hardin county; J. C. Herndon, Louisville; R. C. Ford, Clay county.

ATTORNEY GENERAL—W. J. Hendrick, Fleming county.

SUPERINTENDENT PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—Ed Porter Thompson, Owen county; Jno. O. Hodges, Fayette county; H. K. Taylor, Louisville; C. W. Fowler, Montgomery county.

COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE—I. B. Nall, Louisville; C. V. Wilson, Metcalfe county.

REGISTER OF LAND OFFICE—B. Swango, Wolfe county; J. J. Glenn, Hopkins county; M. F. Brinkley, Rockcastle county; R. F. Harrison, Carroll county; J. McCoy, Bourbon county.

The Democrats of Ohio county are overwhelmingly in favor of at least two of these men, Col. I. B. Nall for Commissioner and Gen. P. Wat Hardin for Governor. While the delegates from this county are not instructed as to the Governor's race, they will no doubt feel morally bound by the sentiment of a majority of the party in the county, which nobody will deny is for Mr. Hardin.

WHAT HE OFFERS.

It has been remarked by every man who has given the matter any attention that the Republicans promises nothing in return for the support they are begging of Kentuckians save only a short respite the poor privilege as demanded here on one occasion of "standing side by side" Mr. Bradley pass." Instead of according the negro voter who has so persistently and unreasoningly clung to the Republican organization any sort of recognition they promise him nothing, not even "forty acres and a mule," as jokingly suggested by the Post, which says:

Col. Bradley thinks he has discovered that the people of Kentucky are prepared to join in sin and misery, brought on by doing those things they ought not to have done, chiefly voting the Democratic ticket, and leaving undone those things ought to have done, mainly in refusing to elect him to any office higher than that of County Judge. His plan of relief is somewhat vague at present, it being that he shall be elected Governor, when he will, no doubt, see that every Republican voter gets forty acres and a mule, or every white one a mint bed, an ice machine, a spring flowing fine whisky, and sugar to be secured from Louisiana.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

The Courier-Journal says: "The Hon. David R. Murray, of Cloverport, Breckenridge county, is a pronounced advocate of silver, but he said to-day to a Courier-Journal representative that the free silver men would not make an aggressive fight in that county, and that he did not think the currency question would be brought up in the convention. Conservative sound money men state that the silverites can number them by two to one in this county, and on this account that statement of Murray's has especial significance. Mr. Murray also said that he thought a spirit of fairness would prevail, and that Breckenridge county would send as many gold men as delegates as it would silver men, but that they would go with instructions to vote for Hardin for Governor. He made a prediction that the State Convention would reaffirm the currency plank of the national platform of 1892. He did not believe that a split would result in the success of the advocates of the money question; on the contrary, he thought that each side would go there impressed with the importance of harmony and unity of purpose and action, and that concessions would be made all around, and neither faction would get just what it wanted, still it would not be justified in creating dissensions on that account."

A New theory in the treatment of coughs, lung and bronchial affections has been advanced by the manufacturers of Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey. It is truly a wonderful remedy. All dealers sell it on a positive guarantee.

GOV. BROWN'S OPINION

IS SUSTAINED BY THE COURT OF APPEALS.

The Commonwealth Wins in Her Proceedings Against the L. & N. R. R.---A Monopoly Crushed.

SYNOPSIS OF THE OPINION

The most important lawsuit decided by the Court of Appeals of Kentucky in many years was that of Louisville & Nashville, &c., vs., the Commonwealth on appeal from the Jefferson Circuit Court, whichwas decided Thursday in favor of the Commonwealth. The L.&N. Company had perfected arrangements by which it was to absorb the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern, thus giving it a monopoly of all the railroads of the State West of Louisville and closing within its control almost the entire terminal facilities of Louisville.

Some months ago Governor Brown, on behalf of the State, instituted injunction proceedings to prevent the consummation of the deal. The case was hotly contested in the lower court but was decided in favor of the State. An appeal was taken by the railroad people and the Court of Appeals has sustained the lower court. The following is a synopsis of the opinion of the court:

Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co. etc vs. Commonwealth, June 13, 1895. To be reported. Appeal from Jefferson Circuit Court. Opinion of the Court by Judge Lewis, affirming.

First—Section 201 of our Constitution in plain terms makes it unlawful for any two or more railroad companies owning parallel or competing lines to consolidate their capital stocks, franchise or property or to pool their earnings in whole or part, or for one of them to acquire by purchase or lease property or franchises of the other, it matters not whether the purchase be made at a voluntary or judicial sale, it being the manifest purpose to inhibit one such company from acquiring, controlling or operating the road of another in any manner or to any extent, and to foster competition and forestall and prevent the creation of railroad transportation, and this inhibition is applicable not only to competing, but to parallel lines.

Second—A court of equity has jurisdiction and may in an action by the State enjoin a corporation from exceeding its chartered powers, or doing acts otherwise illegal and injurious to the public, as it will serve the public interest better to restrain a corporation from the commission of an illegal act, than to wait until after its commission and then proceed by indictment or ordinary action.

Third—The power granted the L. & N. R. R. Co. in its charter to "purchase and hold any road constructed by another company," when construed in the light of the subject-matter, and, considering the object of the statute and the intention of the Legislature, means only the right to acquire branch roads, and not parallel and competing lines.

Fourth—When the language of a statute is clear, unequivocal and capable of but one meaning, and there is no room for construction, a court must enforce it as written, but when looking to the subject-matter and object of a statute, and the intention of the Legislature can be collected, words may be modified, altered or supplied so as to obviate any repugnancy or inconsistency with such intention.

Fifth—The power to purchase and hold competing and parallel lines was manifestly not asked by the Co. or intended to be granted by the Legislature in 1856, because at that time the company had not the means to complete its own road under its original charter, and had in five years only completed 31 miles of it.

Sixth—The charter of the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern Co. prohibits consolidation of its capital stock with that of any company whose lines are parallel and competing; and for the L. & N. Co. to purchase and hold the road of the company would be as much an unlawful act as if done in violation of an express provision of its own charter.

Seventh—The power of a State to foster competition, and by reasonable enactments prevent monopoly within its own limits of railroad transportation, seems to be well recognized, and the fact that nearly two-thirds of the States have now and have for years had provisions either in their constitutions or statutes similar to that in our constitution, and the power to enforce them has never been questioned, seems to be persuasive of their validity and convineing of their necessity. And such laws are not in a proper sense regulations of inter-state commerce; nor does their enforcement infringe upon the power of Congress to regulate such commerce.

H. MERRICK, Agt.

Bradley's Bad Break.

[Kentucky New Era.]

William O. Bradley, who was nominated for Governor by the Republican State Convention, made a speech of acceptance, thanking his political brethran for the honor they had conferred upon him. In concluding his remarks, he allowed his partisan malice to run away with his judgment, and made an utterly false statement in regard to the condition of the State, in his denunciation of the Democratic party. Ha said:

"The old Kentucky homestead is going to decay. There are hingeless doors and broken window panes; the foundation is moldering and crumbling in many places; alternately the sunlight and rain pour through the worn and rotten roof; tangled grass and weeds have destroyed the beauty of the lawn; the furniture is covered with dust, the curtains are moth-eaten, the doors are broken and ready to fall; stagnant pools are standing in the cellar, the fences are down and the cattle are destroying the shrubbery planted by our forefathers."

She has a right to a republican form of government and ran your throughout the years and rotten roof; tangled grass and weeds have destroyed the beauty of the lawn; the furniture is covered with dust, the curtains are moth-eaten, the doors are broken and ready to fall; stagnant pools are standing in the cellar, the fences are down and the cattle are destroying the shrubbery planted by our forefathers."

Commenting upon this untruthful description of Kentucky, which Bradley claimed had been brought about by Democratic rule, the Louisville Evening Post denies that there is any truth in it, and pertinently says: "Old Kentucky is neither in a dilapidated nor hopeless condition. Her tax rate is low, her schools are being daily improved, her penitentiaries are in better condition than ever in her history. She has suffered from the avils of a protective tariff; her industries have been checked by the vicious Republican legislation; her people bear with little comfort an annual tax of four millions for Federal pensions, still she is progressive, prosperous and happy."

To say something is one thing; to prove it is another. We can't prove that Dr. Bells Pine tar Honey is the best cough remedy on earth unless you will try it. If you do this and don't agree with us you get your money back.

WM. F. RAPIER.

The proprietor of the ELLENDALE FAIR & STOCK FARM, near Curdsville, Ky., is among the best known men in Western Kentucky. His training and breeding stables first brought him into notice several years ago and the grand success of his 1894 fair made him known over the State. The magnitude of his plans for the 1895 fair is making his name familiar as a household word all over the Green River country. The grandeur of his new Fair buildings and the beauty of his large and up to date program, makes assurance doubly sure that his claim that his Fair is THE Fair of the Green River country, is simply the truth. Since last Fair he has planted out hundreds of forest shade trees, made beautiful carriage drives, which with the artistically designed flower beds, make the grounds the realization of a poet's dream. He has also made a new Race Track; half-mile regulation, 50 feet in width. The large 3-story Hotel is nearing completion; the 2-story Floral Hall is under way, as is also the 200 feet addition to the grand-stand. All the buildings are large, substantial, and convenient.

The enterprise is one of such magnitude that but very few men could project or plan it, and fewer could carry out the details to a successful finish. Mr. Rapier's clear judgment, indomitable energy and perseverance, backed by his upright business principles, make him a successful as well as a remarkable man.

The ladies of Ohio county ought to be getting their handy work ready to exhibit at the Floral Hall. The interest offered aregreater than at ordinary Fairs. Besides the premium given to the best specimen of work of its class, there will be given a $110 Packard Organ for best display in the hall and a premium of $35 in gold to the best display from each county represented by at least four displays. Anyone desiring any information regarding premiums, or wanting programs, the Secretary, Robert T. Smith, Sorghe, Ky., will cheerfully and freely furnish the same on spplication or you can call at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.'s drug store, Hartford, Ky.

TAKE NOTICE!

To the tax payers of Ohio county: I take this method of notifying you that your Taxes for the year 1895 are due, and that I am COMPELLED to make a settlement with the State Auditor in a very short time, and will be compelled to collect the money at once.

So you will please call at my office in Hartford, Ky., or on one of my deputies in the field at once and settle your taxes. Yours truly,

A TEAM OF WILD HORSES.

[Louisville Times.]

Senator Squire significantly remarks that no one can for east what the next year will bring about in the way of politics—"the fifty-fourth Congress is yet to sit." And a team of wild horses it will be, too.

HOW LONG?

[Grayson Gazette.]

When the Republicans can no longer consistently cry Democratic hard times on accounts of returning prosperity they begin to say "we done it last fall." How long will it take the people to learn that they "did it long before last fall?" That we are just now recovering from '89 to '93? The dawn of light and reason is spreading rapidly.

A-GOING AND A-COMING.

[Louisville Times.]

The Republican press of the East and the Populist press of the South are bombarding Mr. Carlisle. The Republicans hate him because he refused to let Wall street run the Treasury, and the Populists hate him because he refused to let the bonanza silver kings of the wild and wooly West run it. No Senator in Congress has more severely criticised Mr. Carlisle's management of the Treasury than John Sherman, and yet they call the Secretary a Shermanite.

SET 'EM UP ALL 'ROUND.

[McLean County Star.]

The Michigan legislature, by a vote of 75 to 17 has passed the anti-treating bill. This does not prohibit anyone from drinking as much as he pleases at the bar of a saloon, but it forbids the treating of others to spirituous liquors at all times and under all circumstances. There is no doubt that the habit of treating is one of the most fruitful sources of drunkenness known. It is simply a custom with but little more excuse than there would be for presenting each other with cuffs, collars or neckties.

Standing of the Different Candidates

The following is the result of the work of the County Conventions of the State as far as reported. It shows Mr. P. Wat Hardin well in the lead for Governor and Col. I. B. Rough River Locks No. 1.

June 15th.—Great preparations are being made for work to be commenced on the lock walls. Two engines are set about 130 yards apart, two railroads have been laid out from the river to the yards, one of which has several branch roads and one elevated track. Pipes are laid to connect the two engines. There is an office building with two rooms. The front room is headquarters for the night watchman. The work is under the direction of Captain Wm. M. Hall, assisted by Mr. Bular, with W. Flanigan as superintendant and W. Harris boss carpenter.

The tow boat Mary Stewart is employed making regular trips to and from Livermore, bringing supplies for the work. The U. S. dredge boat B. O. Lermond is here at work dipping sand, skunks and logs.

There is but a small force of hands employed at present, but as soon as necessary a large force of hands will be put on the work and I think a general push will be made.

The Strong Position of Loaf Tobacco.

[Farmers Home Journal.]

There is no reason why leaf tobacco should not sell high, and continue to do so during this season. Statistics show that receipts at all the Western markets from January 1st to June 1st, 1895, have been less than they were during corresponding period of any year since 1891. A comparison of the amount of stocks held on June 1st in all the Western markets for the past five years shows that this year they have reached the lowest notch touched in the five years. The figures are as follows: 1895, 33,334; 1894, 60,307; 1893, 65,978; 1892, 53,501; 1891, 58,451.

These facts, coupled with the additional fact that the stock of manufactured goods in the hands of manufacturers and jobbers is probably lower than it has been for five years, ought to and, we think, does place leaf tobacco in a strong position. During the past two years of business depression retailers and jobbers have, as a rule, bought only enough to supply currant wants. Few if any are carrying a large supply. Light orders from jobbers have caused manufacturers to stock up lightly and cautiously. Now, with returning business prosperity, retailers are increasing their orders, which forces jobbers to carry larger stocks, and this in turn encourages manufacturers to load up more liberally and increase their output. While only a medium '95 crop in sight, the biggest part of the '94 crop gone and small stocks held all along the line, why should not leaf tobacco sell steady and high?

WHITESVILLE KY.

June 18, 1895.—Miss Jessie Reynolds, of Fordsville, spent several days last week with Misses Eunice and Estelle Brooks.

Frank Nix, a boy about 14 years of age, found a dynamite cap in the road and as usual it was "not loaded" and he at once proceeded to unload it, which he did by applying a lighted match. Drs. Wedding and Barratt finished up the job by amputating three fingers on last Wednesday.

The ice cream supper given Saturday, the 9th, by the Masonic lodge of this place was the largest of its kind ever held in town. The crowd is variously estimated at from 800 to 1000. The committee have not yet given out the exact net proceeds, but it is near $100. It is proposed to make extensive repairs to the lodge. Judge. L. P. Little and Rev. James made speeches on the occasion.

The old, old chestnut of hard times has taken a back seat, while free silver and sound money are all the absorbing topics. The sentiment here seems to be quite equally divided and lively discussions ensue.

The tobacco men are prising now with a rush. Several cars were shipped last week.

Dr. Vincent Greathouse, of Adair, spent a few days last week with his sister, Mrs. Ky. Hall.

Mrs. Mary Rhodes, of Lonisville, is visiting at P. H. Haffey's.

Mrs. Jno. Kittinger and children are visiting at South Carrollton.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Evans were here last Sunday.

Miss Maude Brown has returned from Hopkinsville where she has been in attendance at Bethel College. She will go again next fall.

The tobacco crop is estimated at 50 per cent. of an average by the tobacco dealers here who have made the closest inquiry.

The young people had a delightful social at O. A. Pate's last Tuesday night.

Mrs. Mollie McCaes, of Zion, Henderson county, spent a week with her mother, Mrs. Fannie G. L. Purcell. She went home on the 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank May have returned home after a two month's stay at Morganfield.

Miss Ida Wells is the guest of John Pate on the 15th inst., a fine girl.

Eula Brooks will leave Wednesday to go to Holt's Station on the L., St. L. & T., where he will conduct a general merchandise store. Eula has always lived in our town and has many warm friends who will miss him. All will extend to him their best wishes for success.

Rev. D. J. K. Maddox preached at the Baptist Church yesterday and last night to good audiences.

Suffering humanity was blessed by a most delightful rain which began about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and continued for nearly three hours.

The Precinct Democratic Convention convened Saturday at 2 p. m. and was called to order by A. P. Brooks. W. S. Neel was selected as chairman and R. E. Knox secretary. O. C. Haynes, W. L. THE LATEST NEWS.

The report that President Cleveland spent Sunday, the 9th, fishing in Virginia has proven to be without foundation.

A queer suit in the Circuit Court in session at Hodgenville, Ky., resulted in a hung jury. It was a suit over one-two-hundredth part of an acre of land which was valued at five dollars per rod. Felix Ash and William Devers were the participants in the suit. The cost has already amounted to over five hundred dollars, while the land is valued at two and one-half cents.

Hide out, little ones. One of the most baffiffing accounts has been received of a monster beast heard down about R. F. Tyler's last Monday night. It is said it has a voice like auto thunder and was as large as one of uncle "Pap's" steers. The story likely was but they do further claim that it left its track which was like unto the track of a lion, and it ran away through the woods and did leap as the hare doth leap.—[Green River Republican.

Good Health

And a good appetite go hand in hand. With the loss of appetite, the system cannot long sustain itself. Thus the fortifications of good health are broken down and the system is liable to attacks of disease. It is in such cases that the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are clearly shown. Thousands who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla testify to its great merits as a purifier of the blood, its powers to restore and sharpen the appetite and promote a healthy action of the digestive organs. Thus it is, not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story and constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Why not take Hood's Sarsaparilla now?

Warning.

Notice is hereby given that S. O. P. Hall was dismissed from Preston Morton Post No. 6, Department of Kentucky, June 8th, 1895, at their headquarters in Hartford, Ky., for disgraceful conduct not becoming one of our order by swindling some of our comrades and citizens of Hartford out of their money. He left for parts unknown. The way he gets his victims is to sign his order to postmaster for his voucher and check to be delivered to them and when he sends his voucher off he orders it sent to another post-office where he receives it himself.

If he don't come up in 30 days and pay, action will be taken immediately by reporting him to the pension department to stop such rascality.

Otis Cox, who was indicted at the recent term of the Ohio Circuit Court, charged with selling liquor, came to town Friday and the sheriff and his deputies being absent, the bench warrant was placed in ex-sheriff Stevens' hands, who is now marshal, and he proceeded to the western portion of town where Otis was found. On seeing the Sheriff he made a break for liberty, running down to the creek and being unable to cross he turned end ran up to Mr. C. F. Schapmire's residence where he hid in a closet. Mrs. Schapmire being in the front of the house entertaining callers, knew nothing of Otis' wheresbouts and the marshal was told when he rode up and inquired for Otis that he was not there. But he having seen Otis go into the yard, concluded to make a search for him and on doing so found him in the closet of one of the rear rooms. He was taken in charge and failing to give bond, was placed in jail to await his trial.

DEMOCRATS IN COUNCIL.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MEETING MONDAY LAST,

Delegate Convention Endorses Col. Nall and Commends the Administration--- The Resolutions.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.

Pursuant to the call for Conventions to be held in the various voting precincts of the county, the Democrats assembled at their several voting places Saturday and appointed delegates who made up the county Convention which met here Monday.

A temporary organization was affected at 2 o'clock, Hon. T. J. Smith being made temporary chairman and B. D. Ringo secretary.

The following gentlemen were appointed a committee on credentials and permanent organization: E. G. Kirby, J. S. Glenn, R. P. Hocker, J. B. Vickers and L. Reid.

While the committee were out Hon. E. D. Walker entertained the Convention with an address in which he advocated the old line policy of the Democratic party. He said the Democratic party was not of one section or for one class, but was a national party, seeking the universal freedom and equality of the citizens of all the States. Such was not true of the Republican party, which was the creature of passion and of sectional prejudice. The people of Kentucky were in no danger of turning from their Democratic faith and allegiance to the support of the party which gathered more than half its following in the State from the negroes and yet found no place on its ticket low enough for the name of any negro. Although the negro does the mass of the voting for the Republican party there was not in all the Republican section of Kentucky a single negro County Attorney or representative in the Legislature, regardless of minor differences, Kentuckians are still Democrats and will give to the nominees of the State Convention the old-time Democratic majority.

At the close of his speech Dr. Pendleton was called for and in a speech of a few minutes plead for the maintenance of Democratic principles, insisting a stable currency of fixed and definite value. He said he wanted good money and plenty of it, but he was opposed to dividing the Democratic party on the money question. He was interrupted by the committee on credentials and permanent organization which presented the following:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS.

We your committee on organization would recommend the Hon. E. D. Walker for permanent chairman of this Convention and R. D. Ringo for Secretary.

The following are the precincts represented in this Convention and the delegates from each, and vote each precinct is entitled to in the Convention:

BARLETTE—B. J. French.

EAST HARTFORD—H. P. Taylor, A. C. Ellis.

WEST HARTFORD—E. D. Walker, J. S. Glenn, J. B. Wilson, Shelby Taylor, J. P. Stevens.

CENTERTOWN—Alvin Rowe, P. H. Ross.

SHALLHORSE—Not represented.

ROCKPORT—M. J. Reid, J. L. Brown, L. Reid.

MCHENRY—Dr. B. N. Patterson, C. W. Taylor.

COOL SPRINGS—Not represented.

BEAVER DAM—R. P. Hocker, T. A. Smart, H. S. Midkiff.

CROMWELL—J. M. Porter, J. H. Barnes.

STEWARTS—Not represented.

ROSINE—J. W. Ragland, A. A. Bryant.

HORSE BRANCH—Not represented.

SULPHUR SPRINGS—E. G. Kirby, F. L. Smith.

SHREVE—J. P. Harl.

MAGAN—Not represented.

FORDSVILLE—F. P. Stone, J. O. McCuen, J. B. Vickers.

ELLIS—Not represented.

BUFORD—W. J. Riley, J. D. Patton.

DEJA—Not represented.

HEPLIN—Not represented.

Their report was adopted and committee discharged. The chair appointed the following gentlemen as a committee on resolutions: R. Holbrook, J. M. Porter, M. J. Reid, R. P. Hocker, H. P. Taylor, J. B. Vickers and J. S. Glenn.

After an informal discussion of the situation and the outlook for Democratic success, which all agreed was never brighter or better, the committee on resolutions made the following report:

WHEREAS, Col. Ion B. Nall, a native and for a long time a resident of this county, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture before the convention to be held in the city of Louisville on the 25th, of this month, be it therefore

RESOLVED, That the chairman of this convention appoint delegates to said State Convention and that said delegates be instructed to support the provisions of the last National Democratic Platform and to vote as a unit in support of Col. Nall and to use all honorable means to secure his nomination and vote as a unit on platform, policy and declarations.

We endorse and reaffirm the declaration of principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the last National Democratic Convention. Under those declarations with tariff reform as our craft and Grover Cleveland as our helmsman, we swept the country. The promises made in that platform have been carried out as far as we were permitted to do so by the opposition of the Republicans and a few recreant Democrats in Congress.

We congratulate the country upon the marked improvement in the condition of our people and of business affairs all over the land as evidenced by the great and continuing rise in wages and reductions in the prices of necessities. This is the direct result of the wise tariff Legislation of the Democratic party and the sound financial policy of the present Administration.

R. P. Hocker, J. B. Vickers, S. K. Cox, J. E. Pendleton, E. D. Walker, H. P. Taylor, T. J. Smith, J. S. Glenn. Alternates: J. E. Bean, R. Holbrook, Shelby Taylor, J. B. Wilson, Ben Orares, B. D. Ringo, Mack Porter, G. B. Likens, John T. Smith, L. M. Render, M. Bean, F. L. Fultz, M. J. Reid, Will Rona, J. P. Sauderfer, Jim Brown.

The Convention then adjourned.

BEAVER DAM NOTES.

We must confess to a feeling of regret, yea, of shame, at the action of the town of Hartford in voting back in her homes the noted saloon.

A town boasting of its proud ancestry, of its refinement, of its churches and of its education, voting back into its midst the open saloon, which claims nothing for its trophies except blood money, ruined homes, blighted prospects, despairing wives and mothers and degraded children, voting in the saloon which had been banished from the county by a law put in operation by an overwhelming majority of the voters of the county, and over the earnest protest of hundreds of petitioners from all over the country. You have voted back the saloon into your own corporate domain, and now you propose to be the "jug town" of the county from whence will be sent out to every quiet neighborhood, rain, death and damnation. Covet again your trophies. What a victory and what a spectacle. We learn that when the vote was announced that these lone sons of Africa, poor deluded voters of African descent, who have no more conception of human aspirations than monkeys, and who have no more interest in the society of Hartford and of Ohio county than a hog has in the spread of the gospel, rushed frantically out in the middle of the Main street, and with fiendish yells of delight, exulted in the victory that had been won. We repeat, what a spectacle! Such exhibitions as this while the good citizens and women of Hartford were sinking in despair! Their frantic yells of exultation may be the prelude to the dirge of some of Hartford's best boys—boys now prattling in their innocent glee.

We had hoped that Hartford would stand by us in our efforts to save our boys from these death-traps, these luring pits of ruin. We are disappointed. We had not believed that she would disregard the earnest pleadings of her best neighbors and friends. We had not supposed she would exchange her collage for the saloon.

As for our own quiet little town, we are for our boys; we are with the people; we are for our school. We have settled the question. We will not mix saloons and education, but we propose to raise the grade of our college equal any in the land.

We had a glorious rain on Saturday last, and people are encouraged and crops revived.

Dr. Moore, of the Christian Church, began a meeting in the school hall last night. RUBAL.

Hydrophobia.

Some days since a dog afflicted with hydrophobia went to the residance of Mr. "Dock" Ward, living about 3 miles northwest of Hartford, and while there the dog got among a drove of 75 or head of cattle belonging to the above named gentlemen, hitting several of them. Up to this time five of his milch cows and one fine steer have become affected with the disease and had to be killed. Time only will tell how many more were bitten and will have to be killed. This some dog bit a lot of other stock in the neighborhood before it was killed. There is a general scare throughout the whole neighborhood.

Chilren's Day Exercises.

Last Sunday at 9.30 a. m. Beulah Church was filled to its utmost capacity with a hopeful multitude. The children having prepared a beautiful program, rendered it to the credit of themselves and to the entertainment of all present. About two hundred children were in attendance with glad hearts and beaming countenances. At 11 o'clock the regular preaching service was conducted by the pastor in charge. After the discourse some three hundred people came forward and pledged themselves to pray for a revival of religion in the community. A deep religious feeling seemed to characterize each one. At 3 p. m. a model Sunday School was conducted, near two hundred scholars in all classes. At 4:30 p. m. a Christian Endeavor Society was organized. The day was both pleasantly and profitably spent.

Coleman was elected Moderator by a large majority over such distinguished competitors as Dr. Whitsel, President of the Southern Baptist Theology Seminary of Louisville, Dr. Pickard, pastor of Broadway Baptist Church, Louisville and Dr. Williams, Vice-President of Bethel College, Russellville, Ky. How will that do for a Hartford preacher?

Dr. Goldstein is Here and will Remain Until Friday.

Dr. G. Goldstein, of Louisville, who is well known in this city, is here to fit glasses to the eyes of all who are in need of them. He has made the study of optics a specialty and any one in need of glasses cannot do better than give him a call. He can be found at the Hartford House until 11 o'clock a. m. Friday. Parents of children whose eyes are in any way affected should take them to Dr. Goldstein and have them examined. Too much care cannot be taken in this particular, as any neglect on part of parents may result in the most serious consequences in after life. If the eyes of the child need glasses the doctor can determine it and adjust such glasses as will be most apt to preserve and increase their strength. The doctor has been giving satisfaction for many years, and we can recommend him as worthy the patronage of the public. Those suffering with their eyes should call on him, and if he don't give relief it will not cost them anything. He can adjust to any eyes and any age. A good glass rightly adjusted is a luxury to a person with failing sight they can ill afford to do without. A glass imperfectly adjusted is worse than no glass. Office hours 10 a. m. to 3. p. m.

ALVEY CALLOWAY AND WIFE.

Cool.

A great deal of public mirth and occasional reprobation has followed Mme. Patti in her capacity of business man. The coolness with which she has always demanded the largest possible price has become as well known as her lovely voice. Moreover, a retort by her has become historic.

When she was told that even the president of the United States did not receive nearly as much for his services as she demanded for hers, she answered, "Very well, get the president of the United States to sing for you!"

Other musicians have shown a thrifty desire to feather their nests. When Paganini was asked, years ago, to play at Vauxhall Gardens, he inquired how many people the place would hold.

"How many?" said the manager. "That is almost impossible to say. It's a large open space."

"Well," said the violinist, "how many will the largest space contain when quite full?"

"Perhaps 20,000."

"Ah, 20,000 people! And you ask how much?"

"Four shillings each."

"Four shillings each! Twenty thousand four shillings make 80,000. Eighty thousand shillings, £4,000 pounds. Well, I will play at one concert for £4,000 pounds, and you may have the other thousand!"—Youth's Companion.

A WOMAN'S NERVES.

THE STORY OF A WOMAN TO WHOM NOISE WAS TORTURE.

Prostrated by the Least Excitement—Physicians Baffled by her Case—Had Given upin Despair when Relief was Found.

[From the Ilate City, Keokuk, Iowa.]

Mrs. Helen Meyers, whose home is at 3315 Vernon avenue, Chicago, and whose visit to Keokuk will long be remembered, was at one time afflicted with a nervous malady which at times drove her nearly to distraction. "Those terrible headaches are a thing of the past," said she the other day to a Gate City representative, in the presence of a number of friends. "And," continued Mrs. Meyers, "there is quite a story in connection with it too, indeed I consider it one of the most miraculous cures of modern times.

"My nervous system sustained a great shock some fifteen years ago, brought on I believe through too much worrying over family matters and then allowing my love for my books to get the better of my discretion where my health was concerned. Why, whenever my affairs at home did not go along just as I expected, I would invariably become prostrated from the excitement and I would consider myself fortunate indeed if the effects of the attack would not remainfor a week. I was obliged to give up our pleasant home not far from the Lake Shore drive, because I could find not stand the noise in that locality. I could find no place in the city which I deemed suitable to one whose nervous system was always on the point of explosion. To add to my misfortunes my complexion underwent a change and I looked as yellow and sallow that I was ashamed to venture from the house at all.

"Madam," said my doctor to me soon after an unusually severe attack of the nervous, "unless you leave the city and seek some place of quiet, you will never recover." So I concluded I would visit my uncle, who lives in Dallas County, Iowa, and whose farm would surely be a good place for one in my pitiable condition.

"Now, for the strangest and most miraculous part of the story," continued Mrs. Meyers who had aroused the curiosity of her listeners. "My uncle used to live here in Keokuk, you know and when he moved to his Dallas County farm, he of course ordered the Gate City sent to his address. I picked up the paper one day and happened to come across an interesting recital of the recovery of some woman in New York State who was afflicted as I had been. This woman had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I thought that if Pink Pills cured that woman they might do the same for me. I began to take the pills according to directions and I began to feel better from the start. My uncle told me two weeks after I commenced taking Pink Pills that he guessed he would not be afraid to discharge his old army musket now without warning me beforehand, for he didn't think I would affect me at all. I took several boxes of the Pink Pills and then I was ready to go back to Chicago. My nervousness was gone and my complexion was as fresh as a rose. A test seven-year-old girl in Iowa and Pink Pills is what put the color in my cheeks. No wonder I am in such high spirits and feel like a prize fighter. And no wonder I like to recommend a medicine that had not been for Pink Pills bought from a Keokuk firm I would not have been alive now," laughingly concluded the lady.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is usually understood,but are a scientific preparation an ecessfully used in general practice for many years before being offered to the public generally. They contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are a positive specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

FITS AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

When Henry M. Hall, M.D., late surgeon U. S. A., had charge of Hospital No. 4, Nashville, during the war he found a child afflicted with epilepsy. Leading specialists could not relieve it. Noted specialists could give but little relief and only for a time. He tried for years to find the secret of its death became the object of his life. For ten out of twenty years he made it a study, until at last success crowned his efforts. Not only old age and infirmities included, but to impart the knowledge of how to cure epilepsy, fits, St. Vitus' dance, nervousness, etc. He has proved that it cures insomnia, Will's disease, sick headache, nervous debility, nervous prostration, and all nervous diseases. Will cure you free of charge, write, stating your disease, as plainly as possible, and he will send you a treatise free. Dr. Hall Thousand Isle, West Philadelphia, Pa.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19.

MONTHLY CROP REPORT.

The weather the first ten days of May was very favorable for farm work and vegetation, but a cool wave set in on the 19th ult., which continued through the week, and on the 14th ult., severe frosts occurred throughout the State. In many places in the State ice formed from one-eight to one-quarter inches in thickness. Heavy frosts occurred on the 15th and 16th. The damage from this spell was not so much as was thought it would be—as it was followed by heavy rains and showers, which were a great benefit to pastures and meadows. The rain which came on the 4th of this month was thought to be general and very much needed—as complaints were already coming in that stock water was getting scarce. The general tone of the correspondents for this months are not at all flattering—on the contrary very gloomy. It was thought by some that the wheat was damaged very much by the freeze, but the damage was very slight, if any. The Hessian Fly has made its appearance in many parts of the State, doing very great damage to the wheat crop. Some correspondents report a large portion of the crop falling from the effects of the fly. Others report that rust is damaging the crop very materially. The condition of the crop as compared with last year, 83.1 per cent., a considerable reduction from last month.

CORN.—The reports from correspondents are very full, and very nearly every county in the State has suffered from the ravages of the army and cut worm. The cut worm was never known to be so bad—many correspondents report that corn had to be planted as many as three times, and that the crops will necessarily be very late. The damage to the corn from the freeze was very great; it turned yellow and looked badly for some time, and where it was left to grow is very little if any, in advance of that that was planted over. Our farmers will recollect that a large portion of our corn crop was planted in June last year, which seems very late, but our reasons are getting later every year. The theory of fall plowing to prevent cut worms is exploded, for they seem to be as bad on one kind of ground as another, but as there are many other advantages from fall plowing, the farmer should not abandon it. The acreage of corn as compared to last year is 92 per cent.

RYE.—The condition of rye as compared to last year is placed at 93.5 per cent.

OATS.—Oats have suffered more from the ravages of the worms than either wheat or rye, the plant being young and tender when they made their appearance. Many fields have been laid waste by them. There is about an average crop sown. The acreage is placed at 92 per cent.

CLOVER.—Clover has suffered more from the effects of the worms than either blue-glass or timothy. More especially young clover which in many places has been entirely destroyed. The comparative condition is placed at 80 per cent.

TOBACCO.—The question asked this month concerning tobacco was as to the condition of the plants and to the acreage. Quite a number of correspondents state: "Whole plant beds entirely destroyed by the worms and unable to get more, and ground will be planted to corn. Plants that have been set are all destroyed by worms, and prospects very gloomy." The condition of the plants is placed at 64.5. The average is placed at 80.5 per cent.

TIMOTHY.—Timothy in many places is heading out very uneven. Prospect not so good as a month ago, and large proportion is cheat or chess—more so than usual. The condition is placed at 83 per cent.

PASTURES.—The condition of pastures is reported not as good as a month ago. The per cent. is placed at 84.

APPLES.—As there was not much of an apple crop last year, the per cent. will run very high. The comparative per cent. is placed at 110.

PEACHES.—Very few counties report having peaches. Those reporting have a good crop, which makes the per cent. very high. The per cent. is placed at 85.

POTATOES.—Potatoes are looking very well considering all the troubles they had to encounter. First the frost, then the worms, and now the potato bug. The acreage compared to last year is 93 per cent.

HOGS.—Average number of hogs as compared to former years is placed at 91 per cent. The average number of brood sows is placed at 94 per cent.

Hetty Green.
[N. Y. Mail and Express.]

How did Mrs. Hetty Green accumulate her vast wealth?

The small army of men who speculate through brokers on the Stock and Produce Exchanges cherish the belief that a large part of the successes or corrections to her inherited estate have been won through lucky deals in bonds, stocks and grain. When their hearts are heavy because of prices going persistently against their interests they are said to find renewed courage in contemplating her as an example of what may be done by a woman, who naturally has fewer sources of information than the men who study the brokers' black boards.

So deeply is this belief rooted that the news of her advent upon the street is sufficient to gather a crowd in her vicinity. The merest touch of her garments is regarded as better luck than the possession of a foot of a graveyard rabbit, killed when the moon is dark.

And yet there is the strongest sort of testimony that Mrs. Green has never bought a share of stock for merely speculative purposes. Ever since she has controlled enough money to make the bank account worth telling she has conducted her financial affairs through the Chemical National Bank. Her drafts and deposits indicate the nature of her transactions, and Mr. Quinlan, the cashier, is the authority for the statement that the bank has never cleared or liquidated a share of speculative stock for her.

The same authority attests the fact that Mrs. Green's income has been by the shrewdest sort of investment in railway and corporation bonds, in real estate and in loans at high interest upon real estate.

How does she acquire the information concerning investment properties which has enabled her to avoid the clutches of the many shady operators who make life a burden to most persons who are seeking investment for capital?

Mr. Quinlan says that Mrs. Green has in most cases relied mainly or solely upon her own methods of acquiring accurate information. A favorite plan of hers is to go to the enemies of any corporation which has attracted her notice as a possible investment. After having learned everything ascertainable against the management and prospects she is armed for an interview with the persons in control. If they can satisfy her of the rectitude of the managers and of the reasonable prospect of success upon the lines employed, she backs her judgment with the cool certainty of a veteran gambler. Otherwise she cannot be persuaded or bamboozled into investing a penny.

Raising Cabbage.

Mr. S. E. Kimrill, in an article to the West Tennessee Whig, tells how to raise fine large crisp heads of cabbage. He writes: I have tried it 8 or 10 years and have fine cabbage every season, while many of my neighbors have made failures. When transplanting use a small piece of paper wrapped around the plant from the upper part of the roots to the first leaf to keep the ont worms off. When you find the plants invested with long cabbage worms, white-wash them by pouring the liquid over the leaves and buds. Do this in the morning so that the sun will dry the water on the leaves. Should a heavy rain wash it off, try it again and when they are well headed you can keep them safe in the same manner from the marauding worms that destroy so much of the finest in this in the latitude. Try it and you will be surprised how large, crisp, and fine the heads will form. The lime seems to invigorate the plant and increase its growth. Just such white-wash as is used on fences, etc., is good. I sometimes use air-slacked lime sprinkled on heavily, but the wash is some better. The wash can be made of air slacked lime. Try it and you will never fail having fine cabbage—as good as is raised in the north.

A Mean Revenge.
[Atlanta Constitution.]

Near Gainesville, a newly-married couple on the train the other day attracted a good deal of attention by their peculiar behavior. A lady got on the train at a station and took a seat in front of them. Scarcely was she seated before they commenced making remarks in undertones about her wearing last season's hat and dress. She was severely criticised by them for some moments.

Presently the lady turned round. She noticed at a glance that the bride was older than the groom, and without the least resentment in her countenance, she said:

"Madam, will you please have your son to close the window behind you?"

The son closed his mouth instead and the madam did not giggle again until the brakesman hollered out "Lula!"

The Middle Temple's Secret.

While making some alterations in Middle Temple hall for the installation of the electric light into that stately edifice the workmen found a box concealed in a recess of the wall near the roof. It was opened, and in it they saw a skeleton in a perfect state of preservation. From the appearance of the bones it must have lain hidden there for a considerable time, perhaps a couple of centuries or more. Whether the skeleton be that of a lawyer or a client cannot now be ascertained, or even can be an osseous framework which has been used in an atomical demonstration to illustrate how much the law can take out of a man. What the skeleton was in life and how it got into the box in Middle Temple hall are mysteries.—London Telegraph.

In 1790 a handkerchief cost 66 cents in Massachusetts, while a pair of stockings cost 15 cents, and potatoes were 30 cts a bushel.
